

THE FUTURE OF MONEY

SOVEREIGN VS. PRIVATE CURRENCIES

PANEL DISCUSSION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF ZURICH

- WHEN May 10th at 6:30pm – After the event an aperitif is offered
- LOCATION Zurich University, Rämistrasse 71, 8006 Zurich
- ROOM KOL-F-101
- PRESENTED BY Studierende für die Freiheit, Hayek Club, Vollgeld-Initiative
- PARTICIPANTS Dr. Thomas Mayer, founder Flossbach Research Institut, former chief economist of Deutsche Bank
Frank Van Lerven, research analyst at Postive Money with the focus on public money creation and quantitative easing for people
- MODERATION Simon Schmid, chief economist, Handelszeitung

In recent years different proposals to change the monetary system started being discussed more broadly in the media. While central banks around the world struggle to keep the current system stable, voices that request profound change become louder. What are the options?

Find out more and listen to what two famous advocates of monetary reform have to say. While Frank Van Lerven campaigns in England successfully for Sovereign Money, in Switzerland well known as Vollgeld, Dr. Thomas Mayer suggests that the best option for the future would be free competition of private currencies.